THE CLIMAX.

Wednesday, - - August 13, 1890.

Nicholasville Fair today.

Sheep lost. See notice by John F. Wagers.

A cool wave struck this locality Sunday night.

Wiggins calls your attention to offer of town lots cheap.

The grass looks well since the heavy rain of last week.

Quarterly Court is in session, Judge Chennault presiding.

Desirable Jessamine county farm for sale. See advertisement.

A main street man picked up $13.00 on futures, the first few days.

The delinquent tax list will be sold publicly Sept. 1st. See notice by Sheriff Hays.

Special train from Richmond to Park Hill Camp Meeting next Sunday. Round trip only $1.50.

A new show and furnishing goods house by two popular young men will open up here about Sept. 1st.

Mr. John G. Taylor found in a box under his counter a large silver pitcher that he had lost sight of for years.

The extension of Main street through the Dillingham addition is the longest level stretch of the entire street.

Ramsey & Fife ask your attention to their advertisement of musical instruments in today's CLIMAX. Read what they have to say.

Miss Myrtle Townsend, who died in Jessamine county last week, aged 15 years, was a niece of Mrs. Jack Freeman and (a) Rowland this place.

Leslie Debes, the well-known insurance man of Lexington, died Friday night, aged probably 45 years. He was a brother-in-law of Mrs. L. J. Frazee, this place.

A spider like on the upper lip of Mr. Sam Traubman, done two months ago, has not entirely healed, and he will probably have a bald spot in that part of his forehead.

The meat store of Biggsstaff and Dunham, James Park, Lexington, has supplied itself with new counter, chairs, tables and other requisites, and is now the most complete store in town.

Mr. P. F. Hogue, an experienced druggist from Cincinnati, has succeeded Mr. Jackson at Powers and Hogue's, the latter having gone to Rhode Island and entered business for himself.

Dr. Howard Switzer, whose numerous cases killed a former Madison county man, has his name shipped our memory—at Chillicothe, Fayette county, was found in a dying condition near Ashland last week from an overdose of morphine.

Mr. T. J. Tribble, an expert confectioner of Richmond, has been here this week trying to make arrangements whereby he can open up a restaurant and confectionery that would be a credit to the town, an establishment that at this opportune time Miller & Bishop are retiring, would do a rushing business, as Lancaster greatly needs a fashionable cafe—Lancaster Record.

School for Girls.

Miss Bessie Baird announces that she will teach a class of twenty girls in the languages and other studies. She is well qualified for the work she undertakes.

Death to dogs.

The City Council has ordered a tax of one dollar collected on all dogs within the limits. Each dog must be tagged; and all dogs found without the passport are ordered shot.

The Rains Ordered.

On last Wednesday, the Richmond Street Railway Co. ordered their rails. They are to be taken at Johnston, Pa. As the money accumulated the order, they will be forthcoming. Let the good work proceed.

Justice Peace.

Mr. T. J. Turner, representing the Bluegrass Hotel Co., has an extensive notice in today's CLIMAX. He will be located in Richmond about Sept. 1st, and will give all information desired in regard to the best place on earth.

Teachers' Institute.

The Madison County Teachers' Institute, which is a session at the Christian Church, under the supervision of Mrs. A. C. Milligan, County Superintendent, Prof. M. Elliot is conducting the Institute in its usual able and interesting way. The attendance is large.

Branch Preteritinary in Madison.

The Shannons have converted the old Oliver Oldham house, near Booneville, into a prison, and will lodge therein fifty convicts. These striped prisoners will be put to work on the Stony Run and Pottsville turnpike. The time required to build the road will be about six weeks.

Change at the County Clerk's Office.

Eight years ago, next Friday, Mr. Thomas Thorne took charge of the County Clerk's office, and has filled it so ably that many men who ever held the office. This week closes his civil service as County Clerk.

Mr. L. W. Hill, one of the most agreeable men in existence, will assume the duties of the office.

Exceedingly Funny.

If you wish to read the funniest paper in the world, and the best of the kind in the United States, subscribe for the Texas Siftings. It is a weekly paper, profusely illustrated, and besides its abundance of humorous matter, contains other things of interest. It is beautifully printed and altogether in an attractive and desirable paper.

T. Wheeler; H. M. Green to H. L. Perry; Mabel Gray to M. Prewitt; W. N. Sutton to Samantha Cox; C. N. Johnson to Edna Golden; T. J. Allen to Frances Coyle.

Madison's Most Wanted Men.

Hon. J. W. Howell, Director of the United States Geological Survey, told Mr. Blanton on 1st instant visit to Washington City that Thos. Jefferson, Vice President, had gathered from Madison and adjoining counties in Ky. the finest collection of mammal bones ever seen in this country, and that after sending for years to the buildings of one of the departments, some official who had no knowledge of their scientific value had been handled by the bone mill and ground into fertilizer.

Thus the precious collection of a great man came to grief.

Official Vote of Madison County.

A fire broke out in the gas-works at 8:30, last night. Miller Bogart, at Bonanza Mills, with the mill house but it under control by the arrival of the engines. Considerable damage.

Rails.

We hear that there is an extraordinary increase of Norway rats in some portions of the county, destroying corn, chickens, turkeys, etc. Gen. G. M. City says rats, cats, hawks, owls and black snakes. Some of the remedies suggested seem worse than the disease, but then we have not tried them. The General suggests that the hawks, owls and snakes be protected, and they will do the work effectively.

To Leave Richmond.

The numerous friends of Rev. Mr. Evans and wife will be sorry to learn that they have decided to leave Richmond. The doctor has brought out a school at Albion, West Virginia, just this side of White Sulphur Springs, and will remove thither in a few days to take possession. The Methodist congregations at Providence and this place will be without a pastor until the meeting of conference a month hence.

In consequence of the change, Dr. Evans desires to sell his beautiful home on Fifth street.

The "Reunion."

The above is the title of a monthly journal, the publication of which has just begun. It is a neat pamphlet printed at The CLIMAX office, and edited by Revs. John G. Foy, H. H. Himmans and J. F. Deane, of Boone. To see the least it is ably edited. The object of the Reunion is to further the effort to consolidate all denominations, resolving them into one church.

The price of the Reunion is 50 cents a year, or five copies for $2.50.

For other information address the editors at Boone.

The proceedings of a recent convention in Ohio, looking to the union of churches, are published with the first number.

Justices of the Peace and Constables.

Below is given a list of the above officers, under the election of last week:

Richmond—D. P. Arner and Wm. Willis; P. B. Broadbent.

Fayette—C. B. Milligan and Jake White; J. H. Chennault.

Union—Albertus Parks and J. A. Turpin; W. A. Williams.

Milligan—Wm. Benton and J. A. Meems; Wm. Robinson.

Yates—G. B. Thorpe and James Rouse; Wm. Cooper; C. H. Adams and N. B. Coy; G. P. Goch.

Powder—J. A. Ham and S. D. Carpenter; J. W. Wenter.

Mill—J. S. Stapp and Albert Whitlock; Elsie Perkins.

Our Catalogue Work.

The CLIMAX office has been crowded the past two months with catalogue orders. Among the most prominent we shall mention 1,000 for Madison Female Institute, 2,000 for Berea College, 1,000 for the publishers of the Reunion, 4,000 for the Madison County Fair, and 400 for the Bates Creek Baptist Association—colorful. We are sure that none of the parties mentioned above have as good work turned out for them.

The truth is, the CLIMAX has its forum.

Mr. J. J. Adams, a catalogue printer who can't be done anywhere in Kentucky.

The capacity of our office for executing catalogue work will be increased to meet the demands, as we have of late been compelled to turn away some of our old and valuable patrons.

An Automatic Pig Feeder.

Mr. James Howard Eggs has a lot of pigs as fat as full moon and he has not fed them a particle. But they have helped themselves beautifully. He has invented a crib that automatically feeds its own pigs. Six or eight inches from the ground, he leaves a 4-inch horizontal opening all the way around the crib, the lower edge of which is just even with the floor. Then to form a sort of table for the pigs, he allows the floor to extend out 18 inches or two feet. Over this floor projection, he arranges a lot of the table. A fence built around the crib is a distance of 10 feet from it. The pigs are at liberty to tackle the crib whenever they feel like it. The fence has openings for the pigs, but excludes the sows. As the pigs pull the ears of corn from the 4-inch opening, the vacancy is instantly filled by the pressure of the corn from above.

An Agreeable Surprise.

The subject of the subjoined paragraph from the Memphis Tenn. Ledger of August 1st is a son-in-law of Ex-Pastor John Taylor, of Chillicothe, Tenn.

"Quite a surprise, even to the Ledger's counting room Saturday evening just as the perfecting press stopped. The surprise was the presentation of a fine gold watch and chain to Mr. James B. Reed, the efficient stenographer of the Ledger. Mr. Reed, of course, the presentation, was well-timed, and made the presentation. Mr. Reed prizes the watch very much, and says he will always keep green in his memory the gifts, Messrs. Mahoney, Dwyer, Lang, Breunhan, Ligon and Grehan. Mr. Reed has never been connected with the Ledger since last January, and has during that time, by his pleasant ways, made many friends by the score. Mr. Reed is well known all over the East and West as a stenographer of first-class ability, and the kind remembrance of the above gentlemen will be no surprise to those who know him."

A Big Gas Plant.

The people at Richmond are not aware that the new gas plant, now in course of construction, is the largest and finest in Kentucky, with a few exceptions among the river towns.

The lot is about 260 feet square, and contains seven or eight buildings. The main building lacks a little of being 100 feet long, two stories, brick, with slate roof, and iron rafters and beams. It has 42 doors and windows.

The office and meter room are 12x20 feet.

The lot is 20x20 feet, and 12 feet high.

The scrubber and condensing room are 25x24 feet and 12 feet high, with corrugated iron roof and sides and a capacity of 300 tons.

The boiler is above ground. The tank, brick, 50 feet in diameter, and 25 feet high; the boiler within of iron, and having a capacity of 25,000 cubic feet.

A 10-inch pipe will communicate the gas to the town.

The stable is 20x50 feet, two stories, with brick foundation.

Walnut street, which is opening from the E. N. L. & B. depot through the Mole-eley and Powell additions, terminates at the new gas works, near the big brook of the E. N. L. & B. at the crossing of the K. C.

Mr. M. N. Drigman, the engineer, in charge, is pushing the work.

The capacity of our office for executing catalogue work will be increased to meet the demands, as we have of late been compelled to turn away some of our old and valuable patrons.

An Automatic Pig Feeder.

Mr. James Howard Eggs has a lot of pigs as fat as full moon and he has not fed them a particle. But they have helped themselves beautifully. He has invented a crib that automatically feeds its own pigs. Six or eight inches from the ground, he leaves a 4-inch horizontal opening all the way around the crib, the lower edge of which is just even with the floor. Then to form a sort of table for the pigs, he allows the floor to extend out 18 inches or two feet. Over this floor projection, he arranges a lot of the table. A fence built around the crib is a distance of 10 feet from it. The pigs are at liberty to tackle the crib whenever they feel like it. The fence has openings for the pigs, but excludes the sows. As the pigs pull the ears of corn from the 4-inch opening, the vacancy is instantly filled by the pressure of the corn from above.

An Agreeable Surprise.

The subject of the subjoined paragraph from the Memphis Tenn. Ledger of August 1st is a son-in-law of Ex-Pastor John Taylor, of Chillicothe, Tenn.

"Quite a surprise, even to the Ledger's counting room Saturday evening just as the perfecting press stopped. The surprise was the presentation of a fine gold watch and chain to Mr. James B. Reed, the efficient stenographer of the Ledger. Mr. Reed, of course, the presentation, was well-timed, and made the presentation. Mr. Reed prizes the watch very much, and says he will always keep green in his memory the gifts, Messrs. Mahoney, Dwyer, Lang, Breunhan, Ligon and Grehan. Mr. Reed has never been connected with the Ledger since last January, and has during that time, by his pleasant ways, made many friends by the score. Mr. Reed is well known all over the East and West as a stenographer of first-class ability, and the kind remembrance of the above gentlemen will be no surprise to those who know him."

A Big Gas Plant.

The people at Richmond are not aware that the new gas plant, now in course of construction, is the largest and finest in Kentucky, with a few exceptions among the river towns.

The lot is about 260 feet square, and contains seven or eight buildings. The main building lacks a little of being 100 feet long, two stories, brick, with slate roof, and iron rafters and beams. It has 42 doors and windows.

The office and meter room are 12x20 feet.

The lot is 20x20 feet, and 12 feet high.

The scrubber and condensing room are 25x24 feet and 12 feet high, with corrugated iron roof and sides and a capacity of 300 tons.

The boiler is above ground. The tank, brick, 50 feet in diameter, and 25 feet high; the boiler within of iron, and having a capacity of 25,000 cubic feet.

A 10-inch pipe will communicate the gas to the town.

The stable is 20x50 feet, two stories, with brick foundation.

Walnut street, which is opening from the E. N. L. & B. depot through the Mole-eley and Powell additions, terminates at the new gas works, near the big brook of the E. N. L. & B. at the crossing of the K. C.

Mr. M. N. Drigman, the engineer, in charge, is pushing the work.

Official Vote of Madison County.

A fire broke out in the gas-works at 8:30, last night. Miller Bogart, at Bonanza Mills, with the mill house but it under control by the arrival of the engines. Considerable damage.

Rails.

We hear that there is an extraordinary increase of Norway rats in some portions of the county, destroying corn, chickens, turkeys, etc. Gen. G. M. City says rats, cats, hawks, owls and black snakes. Some of the remedies suggested seem worse than the disease, but then we have not tried them. The General suggests that the hawks, owls and snakes be protected, and they will do the work effectively.

To Leave Richmond.

The numerous friends of Rev. Mr. Evans and wife will be sorry to learn that they have decided to leave Richmond. The doctor has brought out a school at Albion, West Virginia, just this side of White Sulphur Springs, and will remove thither in a few days to take possession. The Methodist congregations at Providence and this place will be without a pastor until the meeting of conference a month hence.
